Ralph Gilbert, o' Salem, a brother of T. A. and Romeo Gilbert, of this city, has recently passed an examination in a Chicago school or drawing and comic writings, at which he re ceived a percentage of 951/2. Considering the fact that the school has students from all over the United States, this gives Mr. Gilbert a fine standing.

Hall Caine's Great Play

Hall Caine's "The Christian," which will be seen at the Grand Opera House on Thursday, March 20th, is a great play; strong,dramatic,romatic and yet absolutely pure and wholesome. Its prologue is set in a handsome picture, showing the tower and grounds of a ruined castle at Peel, Isle of Man, warm in the summer sunshine which shimmers a stretch of peaceful water beyond. It is Glory Quayle's simple home, and the confining cage, against the bars of which her breast is beating for a flight of freedom into the great world, the world of London, of which she has been told by visitors at her dull home. Opportunity occurs, and in the first act and in the subsequent three, we find her battling with the feverish life of the big city; ambition has mastered her reason, but not destroyed her purity. As a child she has loved young John Storm, (played by Edward Morgan), now a man, who has taken up the cross and renounced the world. He is saving souls by ministering to the body. He is ever in the midst of the poor and unfortunate, and ever watchful of the wayward little woman was the sweetheart of his boyhood. The story is too long to tell here but virtue prevails, and the minister conquers the titled roues who are endeavoring to engulf Glory in guilded ruin. The sad story of Polly Love is a grateful quantity in the drama, and adds a vein of pathos which is much appreciated. The religious ethics of "The Christian" are not severe. John Storm, though a minister of Christ, recognizes no restraint of creed. His mission is to destroy evil that the man may be happier. He Saturday night George Harris, an In- names his chapel after the Magdalene.
